PRINCIPAL'S MESSAGE

It is hard to believe another calendar year is about to come to a close. It is also hard to believe that all the leaves are gone and snow has begun to fly. By the end of December we will have ended our 1st semester. It seems like yesterday school was starting with an abundance of excitement and anticipation. As the school year continues that excitement begins to wane and negative patterns and behaviors begin to become evident. We all as humans fall into patterns and behaviors. Those who are successful in life appear to follow positive patterns and behaviors others choose a different route. As a parent I notice negative patterns at times in my own children's lives. It is at these moments that I feel as if I should intervene. Below I have included 4 tips to deal with negative patterns.

4 Ways to Deal with Negative Patterns

- Deal with violations, mistakes or disappointments early. Established patterns are hard to break.
- Think next time. Last time feels like punishment. Next times feels like progress.
- Identify what needs to stop, start or change in order to prevent patterns of failure from recurring.
- Establish systems,

Promote healthy and responsible choices procedures and accountability. Reluctant to intervene means you'll see the same issues again. The patterns you tolerate, confront or create determine success or failure.

I have found the bolded statement to be very true. If I choose to confront my children on their negative patterns change ensues on the other hand if I choose to tolerate their negative pattern nothing happens. I sometimes feel as if these negative patterns are out of my control but I quickly realize if I don't do something about it nobody else will. It has been said the definition of insanity is doing the same thing over and over again but expecting different results. If we see students or our own children in negative patterns or behaviors lets step in and help them avoid the above mentioned definition of insanity.

GHS STUDENTS ATTEND BUSINESS VISITATION DAY

On November 20, Financial Services and Business students from Green High School attended Business Visitation Day hosted by the University of Rio Grande where local high school students visited the campus, gained a better understanding of careers in business, met with faculty and current students and showed off their schools' accomplishments. Students were grouped into teams and competed with other teams from our school as well as other area schools in regards to the topic of market your favorite superhero.

One of the Green High School student teams, earned second place overall during this competition. Those students included Tyler Johnson, Alexis Bays, Megan Salyers and Victoria Mollett. They received long-sleeve t-shirts from the University of Rio Grande.

Another of the GHS student teams stole third place. Those students are: Lexi Davis, Karlie Lujan and Preston Ramey. They received t-shirts as well as prizes. Congratulations to these students as well as other GHS teams for a job well done in representing GHS proudly!
